Overview

At Traveller Movement's 2023 conference, 'Future Voices' will celebrate the diversity of Romani (Gypsy), Roma and Irish Traveller youth and community. While the UK is experiencing multiple interconnecting crises, we must keep moving forward and commit to creating better outcomes for the next generation. By creating intergenerational dialogue and focusing on opportunity and access, we can build a brighter future.

We are not under any illusions about the barriers these communities face. From education to employment to politics, there is a lack of access, inclusion and opportunity. The cost-of-living crisis, voter ID changes and lack of access to adequate healthcare disproportionately affects ethnic minorities. Economic struggles are simultaneously affecting, and are affected by, an unfolding mental health crisis. Community reports of deaths by suicide – particularly amongst children and young people– are increasing at an alarming rate.

Coupling these poor outcomes with frequent incidents of hate crime and discrimination, there is no doubt that Romani (Gypsy), Roma and Irish Traveller communities are at a systematic disadvantage from the general population. While there is wide-ranging variety between Romani (Gypsy), Roma and Irish Traveller communities, all are united by the fact that they are poorly served by policymakers and public services. Despite parliaments acknowledgement of this failure, little change can be seen on the ground. There has never been a more important time for young people to take a stand and engage with the political landscape.

We know about the lower rates of educational attainment and higher levels of unemployment within these communities, but we rarely highlight the pockets of good news. For example, the number Romani (Gypsy), Roma and Irish Traveller students who started a degree course at a university or college doubled in 2022. We rarely celebrate our successes and at this conference we wish to shine a light on good practice and good role models.

To address the profound challenges ahead, the 2023 Traveller Movement conference will bring together key policymakers, passionate advocates, motivational business leaders and inspiring young people to consider the relationship between education, opportunity, and access within GRT communities specifically.

From panel to workshop, the guiding thorough line of 'Future Voices' is identifying how we support and empower the next generation.

During economically and politically trying times, it is easy to feel like there is no way out, but we want to draw attention to the light at the end of the tunnel. This year our conference brings together an inspirational cohort of diverse, intergenerational voices. Through a network of support, Romani (Gypsy), Roma and Irish Traveller youth can be empowered to seize new opportunities and make politics work for them.

Keynote Speaker:

Panel 1: What is the Road Map?

Panellists: Dr. Jon Tan (Leeds Beckett University); Charlie Doherty (The Traveller Movement); Shannon Roncarni (Youth Advisory Group);

Are we doing enough to offer good employability skills and inclusive strategies to open up pathways to fair and equitable education training and employment opportunities? This panel brings together a wealth of knowledge and experience to share successful policies and hear directly from practitioners and community voices.

Panel 2: Reembracing our sense of belonging (a seat around the campfire)

Panellists: Declan O Driscoll (The Traveller Movement); Olivia Hammond (Romani Gypsy FE Teacher); Prof. Colin Clark (University of the West of Scotland & TM Advisory Board Member); Laura Angela Collins (The Traveller Movement); Sally Carr (National Youth Agency & TM Advisory Board Member)

Finding pride in ourselves as Romani (Gypsy), Roma and Irish Traveller communities can often present a significant challenge, given the negative stereotypes portrayed in the media and by our own politicians. As diverse communities we must build on our strengths and reembrace our sense of belonging. Can our communities rise to the challenge, embrace difference and all have a seat around the campfire? This panel of intergenerational experts will share their experiences and discuss this question.

Workshops

Workshop 1: From Margins to Movements: Building Political Power for Gypsy, Roma & Traveller Youth

Austin Harney (Civil Servant and PCS Union Representative in the Justice Sector); Virgil Bitu (Roma Human Rights Activist Green Party); Jimmy Doherty (The Traveller Movement); Elisha Holt - Community Engagement and Development Officer

Gypsy, Roma, Traveller Young People are seeking greater representation across the parliamentary political system. In a political climate which is underpinned by uncertainty and change, with the cost of living crisis, inflation at all time high and record levels of industrial action. There has been no more of an important time for young people to become engaged in politics.

Explore the vital themes of accessibility, representation, and making politics work for our communities. Gain some valuable insights into empowering strategies, promoting political literacy, and nurturing active participation.

Listen and discuss increasing political engagement and representation for the Gypsy, Roma, Traveller Communities with voices from across the political spectrum.

Together, let's use this workshop as an opportunity to build a future where political inclusion knows no bounds."

Workshop 2: The Different Paths to a Prosperous Future

Olivia Hammond (Tutor & Apprenticeship Adviser for Business and Marketing for Lancaster & Morecombe College); Dan Rosenburg (Public Law Solicitor in Education and Community Care for Simpson Millar); Shannon Roncarni (Youth Advisory Group)

Educational experiences vary greatly between all children but none more clearly than those of Gypsy, Roma and Traveller children and young people. In an education sector which continually attempts to use existing and new models that standardise large parts of the system, is it really a surprise Gypsy, Roma and Traveller children and young people find education difficult to access and succeed? It is vital for the success of our young people that the education system works to support Gypsy, Roma and Traveller young people, and move away from a model that makes young people, families and school staff work hard to serve our education system. Now is the time for our young people to decide what works best for them to allow them to succeed.

Workshop 3 : Empowering Entrepreneurship

Wolfgang Douglas (CEO and Founder of RomaniChals Rals Modular Homes); Shane Manogue (CEO of Lovit Technologies Ltd); Shannon McDonagh (Youth Advisory Group); Katrina Sale (Head of Partnerships at the Entrepreneurs Network & Chair's the APPG for Entrepreneurship).

Join us for an inclusive and dynamic workshop tailored specifically for Gypsy, Traveller, and Roma individuals interested in pursuing self-employment. Gain valuable insights into the process and challenges of setting up a business, from registering with Companies House to understanding the importance of public liability insurance and VAT registration. Engage with inspiring business leaders who will share their stories and provide guidance. Connect with like-minded individuals, expand your network, and foster meaningful connections. Embrace the opportunities that await and unleash your entrepreneurial spirit in a supportive and inclusive environment.

Workshop 4: Is there really no room at the Inn?

Charlie Doherty (The Traveller Movement); Martin Howe (Martin Howe. Senior Partner and Public Law Solicitor for Howe & Co.); Chloe Pugh (Equality & Human Rights Commission)

In a world where we are ever increasingly focused on the importance of diversity, equity, inclusion and human rights, how can it be possible that the leisure and hospitality industry still regularly discriminates against Traveller people by refusing to offer services based on race? With cases still being regularly referred and reported, why are we seeing situations reminiscent of the 1950's 'No Blacks, No Dogs, No Irish' in relation to predominantly Irish Traveller communities, continue without wider sector understanding or challenge of these out-of-date, archaic and wholly unjust actions?

Workshop 5: Spotting the Red Flags: Healthy Relationships and Wellbeing

Laura Angela Collins (The Traveller Movement); (Against Violence & Abuse); Tina McInerney (The Traveller Movement); Crystal Grace Smith (Traveller Women Helpline)

Women and girls need to know their rights and understand the warning signs of abuse. It is important for all young people to know the difference between a healthy and unhealthy relationship. This workshop will focus on relationship health and safety. What are the red flags in a relationship? What support is available for girls and their parents? How can we keep our daughters safe, happy and healthy? This workshop explores these questions and considers what needs to happen to support and empower the next generation.
